

Final Piece

To photograph my final piece I used a studio with both white and black backdrops. To create the atmosphere of the feast scene we used a soft-box light and hung it over the centre of the table. This photoshoot was a great chance to act as an art director and direct how I wanted the photos to look and how my piece would be arranged and positioned.

