Perfect day

This is the world view of the campus theme that I am currently exploring, with the style of blue and white uniforms as the main key

The set age of this series is high school students, and the illustrations drawn will revolve around five characters (to complete the character setting through the activities of students' life).

World ranch

This is my personal series of works designed by myself, which is an exploration of the fantasy world view of grassland animals.(Works with black background are all exhibited works in this series.)

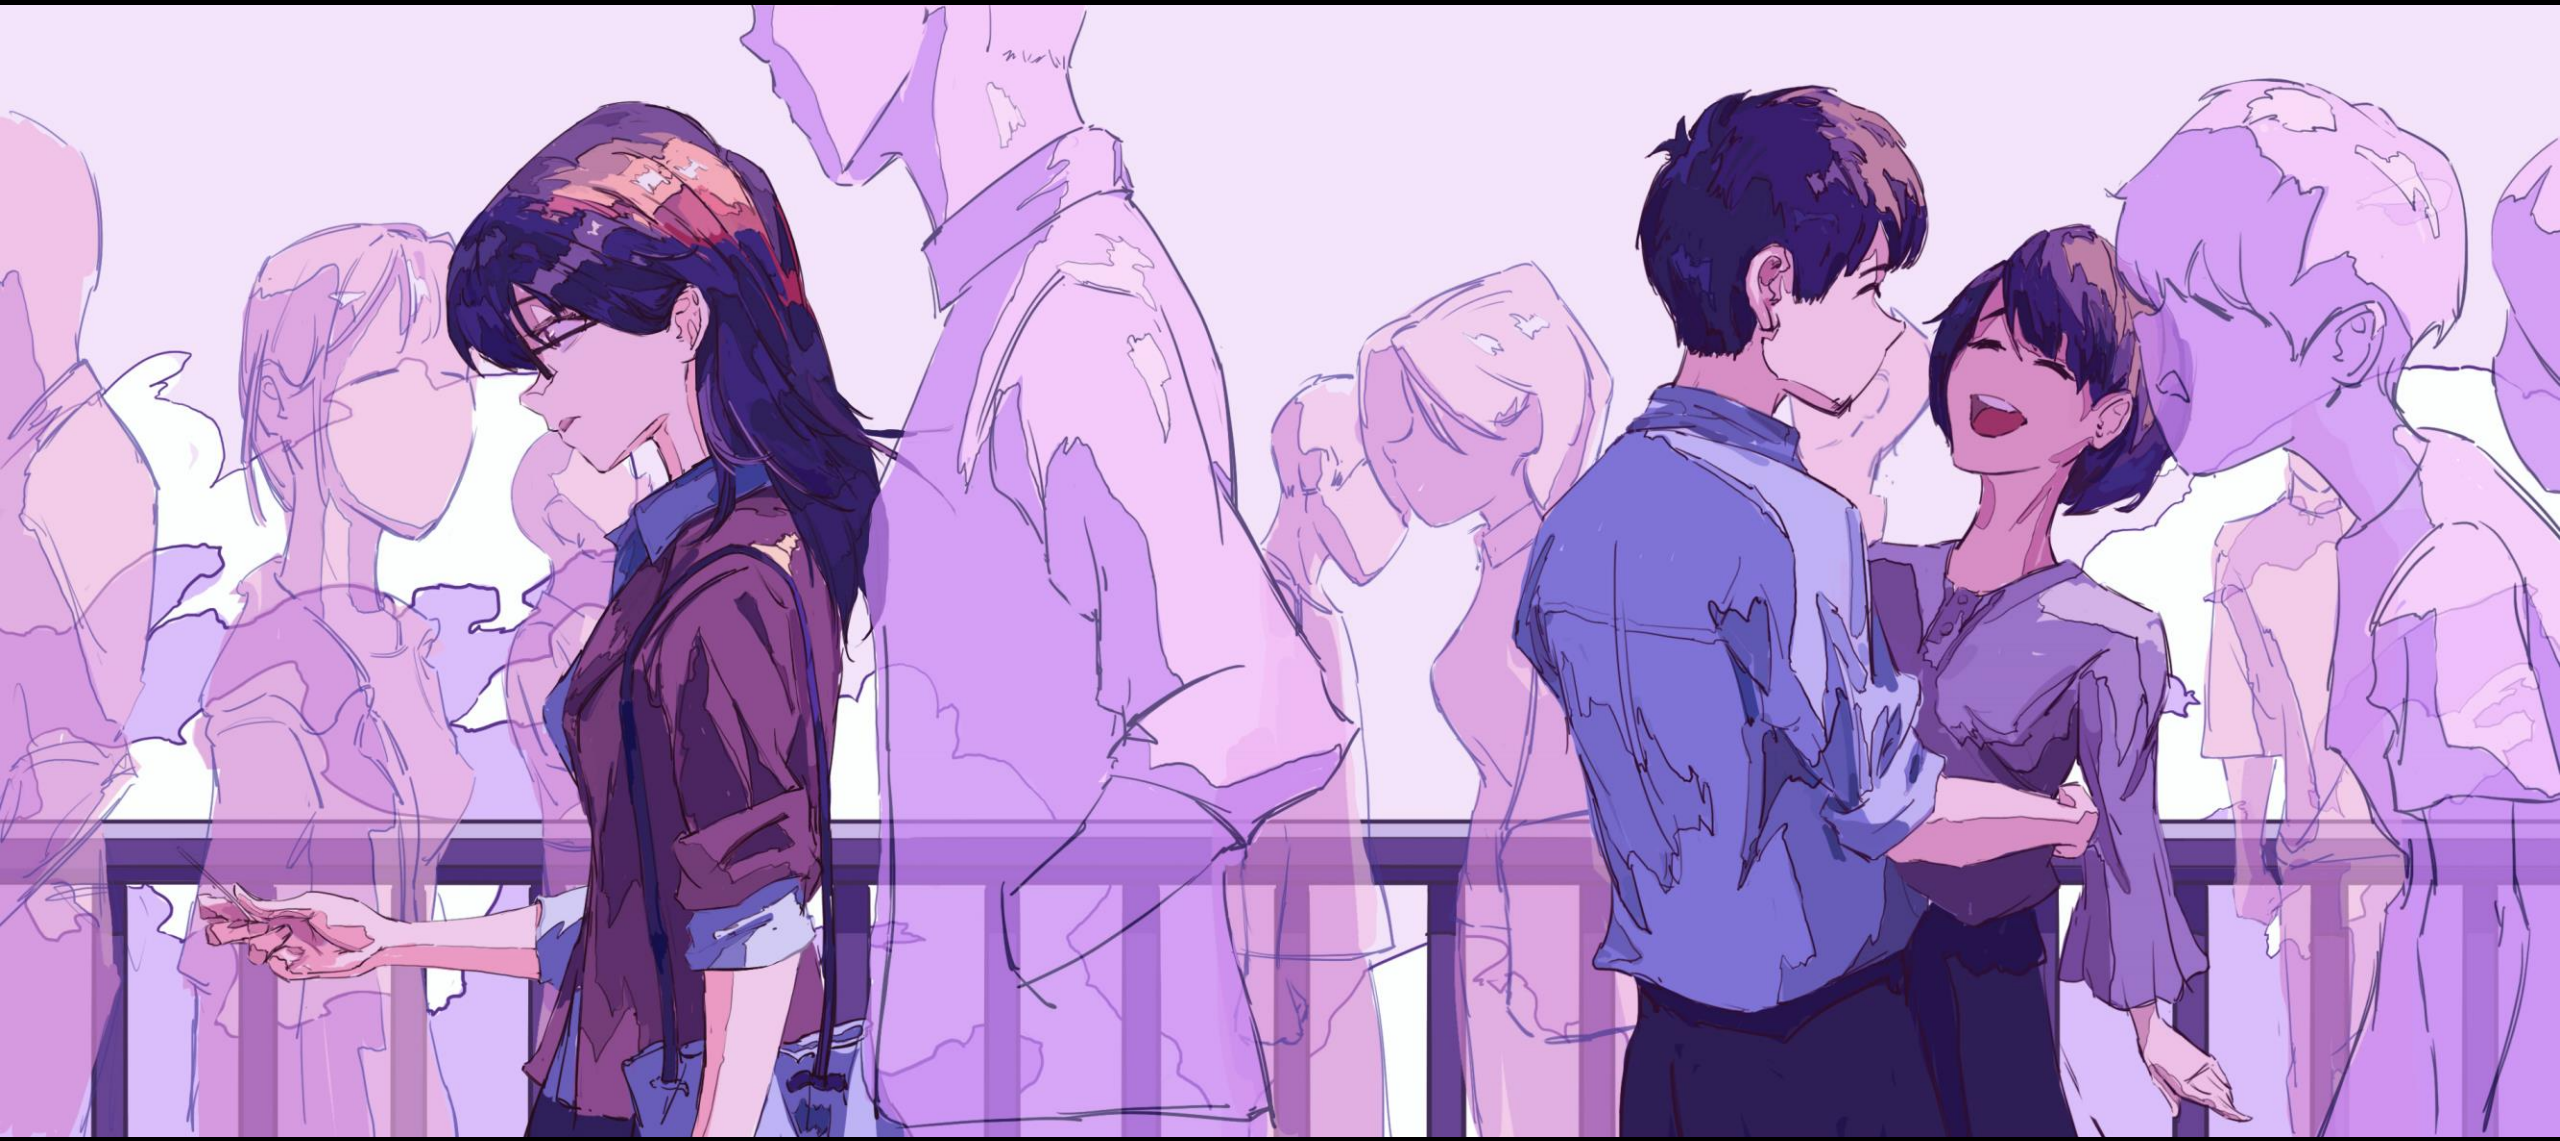

Most of the animals in the world I set have blue hair. The current illustration content records the interaction between the character and the animals
