"Bringing It All Together: Creating the Final Shoe Body"

"Here's the finished body of the shoes, all brought together after carefully joining each pattern. Every piece was thoughtfully designed and stitched with care to create a cohesive and well-crafted final product. This final look is the result of a lot of hard work and attention to detail, and I'm really proud of how it turned out."

From Body to Sole: The Final Connection

FINAL DESIGN

"This is the final result after I completed three different experiments, each one allowing me to refine and enhance my stitching technique. Through this iterative process, I was able to learn from each experiment and apply those lessons to achieve a polished and improved final look."
